ADMINISTRATION FOR

CHILDREN & FAMILIES

On November 19, 2014, President Obama signed the Child Care and Development Block Grant (CCDBG) Act of 2014 into law. This reauthorized the child care program for the first time since 1996 and represents an historic re-envisioning of the Child Care and Development Fund (CCDF) program. The new law makes significant advancement by defining health and safety requirements for child care providers, outlining family-friendly eligibility policies, and ensuring parents and the general public have transparent information about the child care choices available to them. For more information about the CCDBG visit the website: <https://childcareta.acf.hhs.gov/ccdf-reauthorization>. For an overview of the law visit the website: <http://www.acf.hhs.gov/programs/occ/resource/ccdbg-of-2014-plain-language-summary-of-statutory-changes>

Is a comprehensive initiative to ensure that our young children – the 1.5 million New Yorkers under age six – have the opportunity for high quality early learning experiences. QUALITYstarsNY has the potential to create an efficient and effective early learning system that is accountable to investors, easy to access and good for children and families. QUALITYstarsNY is a quality rating and improvement system. It is designed to recognize programs that demonstrate quality above and beyond meeting New York’s strong regulatory standards. An effective quality rating and improvement system for programs in centers, school and homes, rests on the foundation of a state’s regulatory system. QUALITYstarsNY is designed to improve quality and provide supports such as technical assistance and professional development. Any program that is regulated by the State of New York or the City of New York will be eligible to apply for a star rating. A one-star rating will be issued by completing a registration/licensing application. For more information about QUALITYstarsNY visit their website: <http://qualitystarsny.org>

Early Learning Trainer Credential

The New York State Early Learning Trainer Credential provides a standard by which to assure the quality of Early Learning Trainers. Additionally, it represents a level of professional achievement for trainers. The title, “trainer” is the field-accepted term used to indicate a person who educates, instructs, guides, and/ or mentors other adults in knowledge and practices for professional development.

The New York State Early Learning Trainer Credential formally recognizes the value and specialized knowledge, skills and attitudes necessary for those who provide community-based training to early care and education programs and providers. The Trainer’s education, experience and competencies, categorized by four Knowledge Base Areas, including knowledge of content, instructional design and development, presentation skills, and professionalism are reviewed and verified by New York State Association for the Education of Young Children. If an individual meets all criteria the credential is awarded. For more information about the Trainer Credential, visit: <http://www.nysaeyc.org/credentials>

FOR OUR BABIES
NEW YORK
A CALL FOR BETTER BEGINNINGS

Shape babies' brains with responsive and nurturing caregiving.

For Our Babies is a national campaign that raises awareness and mobilized action for the healthy development of children in the United States, from conception to age 3 years. New York is the first state to join the national movement. The New York campaign is steered by the statewide infant and Toddler Resource Network, a group of 27 infant and toddler training specialists coordinated by the Early Care and Learning Council (ECLC). For Our Babies focuses on Four Pillars of Healthy Development: Prenatal Care; Paid Family Leave; Well Baby Care; and Quality Infant/Toddler Care. For more information visit the website: <http://www.earlycareandlearning.org/for-our-babies-new-york.html>

Aspire is New York State's registry and statewide training calendar for early childhood and school age professionals. Teachers, providers, directors, trainers and anyone who works with children can use Aspire to keep track of important information about their career, including education, employment history and other professional development or contributions. Aspire can also help early childhood and school age professionals plan and find professional development that will enrich their practice.

The New York City Early Childhood Professional Development Institute (PDI) administers Aspire on behalf of New York Works for Children, the state's professional development system. Aspire was developed using funds from the New York State Office of Children and Family Services, the New York State Early Childhood Advisory Council, and the New York City Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

ALL ABOUT ADVOCACY

Making a Difference for Children

What is advocacy? Families, organizations or volunteers working on behalf of the rights and interests of others, such as, high quality, affordable child care for all children.

Who can advocate? Anyone can advocate! Advocates exist in schools, child care facilities, communities, and home environments.

What do advocates do? Advocates typically represent or give voice to an individual or group whose concerns and interests are not being heard. For example, an advocate may seek to ensure that children have access to positive influences or services, which will benefit their lives such as education and childcare.

Advocacy also happens at the policy level and aims at changing the policies of governments. These advocates do lobbying, policy research, file lawsuits, and engage in other types of policy change techniques.

What do people advocate for? Some of the current issues on the table for child care include:

- Supporting working families by advocating for additional money for child care subsidies
- Support funding for Child Care Resource and Referral Services
- Support public funding for afterschool programs
- Support funding to increase the quality in child care programs
- Support funding for QUALITYstarsNY <http://qualitystarsny.org/>
